ABOUT US

Who We Are

Since 2008, the International Food & Beverage Alliance (IFBA) has convened leading global food and non-alcoholic beverage companies to empower consumers to eat balanced diets and live healthier lives.

We've expanded our actions over the years through a series of core commitments designed to support the World Health Organization's 2004 Global Strategy on Diet, Physical Activity and Health, and the 2011 UN Declaration on the Prevention and Control of Non-communicable Diseases (NCDs), among others.

We proactively report our progress to the public annually, and collaborate with all involved to find bold, smart, diverse solutions to address global health challenges.

What We Do

We work toward improving the health and wellness of consumers and communities:

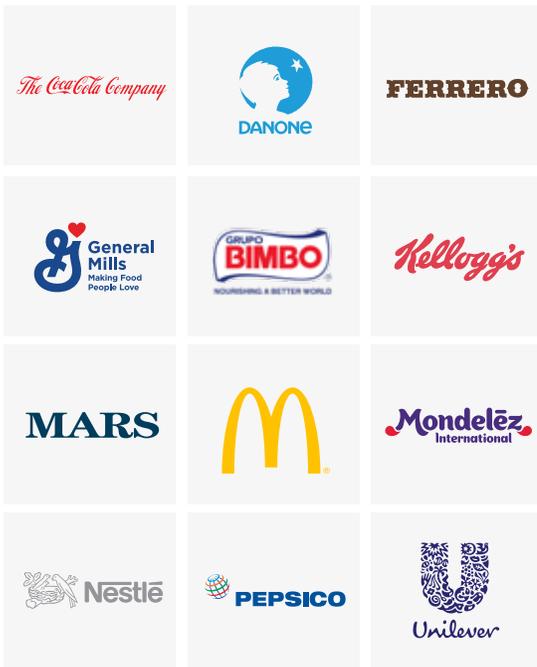

INNOVATE
to create new & improved products and smaller portions;

EMPOWER
consumers to make informed choices;

COLLABORATE
with all involved to find bold, smart, diverse solutions to global health challenges; and others in our industry to step-up, take action, and proactively report progress.

Our commitments have been developed to meet the objectives of the World Health Organization and the 2030 UN Sustainable Development Goals of zero hunger and good health and well-being for all.

Good health is good business.

We are on a journey. We've come a long way, but we know there's more work to do. And we will go further.

Responsible Marketing

Our global marketing policy provides that companies do not advertise to children under 12 years of age, or if they do, they only promote better-for-you products. In addition, companies do not advertise any products to children in primary schools, even if they're better-for-you products. Our policy is in line with the 2010 WHO set of Recommendations on the Marketing of Foods and Non-alcoholic Beverages to Children.
